

#LoveIrish
Research

A national campaign of the
IRISH RESEARCH COUNCIL
An Chomhairle um Thaighde in Éirinn
www.research.ie

Understanding the ‘Right to be Forgotten’ in Context A Workshop

Friday 31st March 2017,
Law School, University College Cork, Ireland

On the 31st March 2017, the Law School at University College Cork will host a multidisciplinary workshop exploring the meaning of the ‘right to be forgotten’. Participants will discuss the origins of this ‘right’, the particular privacy challenges of the digital era, legal and regulatory responses to these challenges and the impact of the ‘right to be forgotten’ on freedom of expression and the freedom to access information.

The event is generously supported by the Irish Research Council, New Horizons funding scheme. Anyone is welcome to attend this event and there is no charge but advance registration is necessary as places are limited. Please contact lawevents@ucc.ie by 1st March 2017 to reserve a place.

Workshop Schedule

Venue: Brookfield G06

9.30 – 9.45	Registration
9.45 – 9.50	Welcome Address
9.50 – 10.00	Introductions
10.00 – 13.00 (incl. break)	Privacy and Identity in the Digital Era Chaired by Maria Cahill and Steve Hedley, University College Cork
13.00 – 14.00	Lunch
14.00 – 17.00 (incl. break)	Evaluating Legal and Regulatory Responses Chaired by Maeve McDonagh and Darius Whelan, University College Cork

Invited Participants

A.H.M de Baets , University of Groningen	Maria Cahill , University College Cork
Steve Hedley , University College Cork	Andrew Hoskins , Glasgow University
Paulan Korenhof , Tilburg University and University of Nijmegen	Sanna Kulevska , Lawyer
Orla Lynskey , London School of Economics	Sylvia de Mars , Newcastle University
Daithí Mac Síthigh , Newcastle University	Maeve McDonagh , University College Cork
TJ McIntyre , University College Dublin and Digital Rights Ireland	Patrick O’Callaghan , University College Cork
Eoin O’Dell , Trinity College Dublin	Giovanni Sartor , European University Institute, Florence and University of Bologna
Darius Whelan , University College Cork	Diane Zimmerman , New York University